I'm inclined to agree with Kelly. It's not simply that Zach has a law degree, he was representing the Kalispels as their attorney on this specific matter when the Tribe visited HQ and up through September 2012. They are free to give him any title they want, but that does not alter his involvement or perspective on this particular case. I'll shoot a message to Jim Curtin, who seems to be checking email, to see if he has similar concerns.

Kelly called to let me know that he considers Zach an attny. despite the fact his job title is a Sr. Policy Analyst. And, if this is an attny. meeting, Kelly will have a hard time getting an attny. there on such short notice. Kelly further reflected that the meeting he agreed to was not an attny.'s one and he would be inclined not to participate if that was the case.
